STATUTORY AUTHORIZATION

Title 22, Chapter 2, Montana Codes Annotated 1989

22-2-101. Montana Arts Council established. In recognition of the increasing importance of the arts in the lives of the citizens of Montana, of the need to provide opportunity for our young people to participate in the arts and to contribute to the great cultural heritage of our state and nation, and of the growing significance of the arts as an element which makes living and vacationing in Montana desirable to the people of other states, the Montana Arts Council is hereby created as an agency of state government.

22-2-106. Council duties. The duties of the Council shall be:

- (1) To encourage throughout the state the study and presentation of the arts and stimulate public interest and participation therein;
- (2) To cooperate with public and private institutions engaged within the state in artistic and cultural activities, including but not limited to music, theatre, dance, painting, sculpture, architecture, and allied arts and crafts, and to make recommendations concerning appropriate methods to encourage participation in and appreciation of the arts to meet the legitimate needs and aspirations of persons in all parts of the state;
- (3) To foster public interest in the cultural heritage of our state and expand the state's cultural resources;
- (4) To encourage and assist freedom of artistic expression essential for the well-being of the arts.

INTRODUCTION

The Montana Arts Council encourages the expansion of opportunities for all Montanans — regardless of age, sex, race, place of residence, income or physical condition — to create, participate in and appreciate all the arts. The Council strives to convince all Montanans that the arts and creativity are precious natural resources that we must preserve and promote.

The state of Montana, celebrated for its natural resources, recognized its precious human treasures when it created the Montana Arts Council on January 19, 1967, and charged the agency with promoting and supporting the state's diverse arts, artists and cultural organizations.

From the beginning, the Council proved a persistent and innovative proponent for artistic resources. Within the state, Council programs such as Artists in Schools/Communities, Governor's Awards for the Arts, First Book Award and Montana Folklife Program exposed Montanans to their artistic and cultural heritage. Organizational grants, fellowships, technical assistance and networking efforts nourished both individual artists and arts and cultural organizations.

Outside the state, the Council played key roles in establishing the Western States Arts Federation, attracting out-of-state artists to Montana and introducing Montana's world-class artists to national and international audiences. Based on population, Montanans consistently win a disproportionately high percentage of NEA fellowships and grants. Montana artists surpass those from other states in per capita representation in regional and national exhibitions. Montana's reputation on the national arts scene now far exceeds its size, and the Council serves as a model for other state arts agencies.

The Council's earliest commitment — to serve the people of Montana with programs and assistance that distribute arts and culture broadly — has benefited virtually every Montana community with one or more Council programs or grants. The unprecedented growth in Montana arts activities over the past 20 years testifies to the Council's impact on Montana's cultural life. Montanans fiercely love Montana, and our love springs partly from the quality of cultural life in our communities. We are proud of the vigorous role the Montana Arts Council has played in the state's cultural life, and we look forward to a flourishing future.

HISTORY

1965: Congress passes the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities Act, providing a one-time grant of $25,000 to each state for launching a state arts agency. Gov. Tim Babcock, by executive order signed April 22, 1965, creates the Montana Arts Council.

1966: The 25-member steering committee uses its first $12,500 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts to conduct a 56-county survey of the state's cultural resources and reports its findings and recommendations to the Governor.

1967: The 40th Montana Legislature enacts House Bill 12, authorizing the Montana Arts Council as a 15-member advisory board overseeing a new agency of state government.

1968: The state receives its first General Fund appropriation of $10,600 for the fiscal year; from its office in Missoula, the Council applies for, receives and disseminates $39,383 in federal funds for the same fiscal year.

1969: The Council launches its Artists in Schools/Communities program with residencies in creative writing.

1970: The Council hires its first salaried executive director.

1971: The Council initiates a peer-review panel process for its grants, broadening participation in the program.

1972: The Council adds visual arts to its Artists in Schools/Communities program and contracts with a community development expert to conduct town meetings in every Montana community.

1973: The Council adds film and video to its Artists in the Schools/Communities program.

1974: With a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Council hires the first director for its Artists in the Schools/Communities program; the Council also contracts to conduct a survey of the arts in Montana.

1975: The Council initiates a 30-minute monthly TV program, "Creel," that features Montana artists and is broadcast over the MTN network and begins producing a radio program, "Off the Wall," that airs nationwide on National Public Radio.

1976: The Council contracts with an Indian cultural coordinator to conduct a survey of American Indian contemporary and traditional art.

1977: Montana and Minnesota co-author the federal-state study on policy planning, adopted by the National Council on the Arts.

1978: The Council adds theater and dance to its Artists in the Schools/Communities program; the Legislature creates Montana's Cultural Trust Fund, which now provides approximately $640,000 per year to arts and cultural organizations.

1979: The Montana Folklife Program begins when the Council hires the first state-sanctioned folklore coordinator in the nation; the Council also hires a full-time community arts coordinator and launches its First Book Award and Community Bookshelf programs.

1980: The Council begins its ArtistSearch telegram/newsletter program.

1981: In cooperation with the Governor, the Council announces its first Governor's Awards for the Arts; the Folklife Program completes work on its first phono album, "When the Work's All Done this Fall;" Eastern Montana College publishes its "Directory of Montana and Wyoming Foundations," revealing few stable independent funding sources for Montana's arts and cultural organizations; Council surveys indicate that expenditures by non-profit cultural organizations rose 250 percent in the last seven years.

1982: The Council adds music to its Artists in Schools/Communities program and begins its Individual Artist Fellowship program.

1983: The Legislature enacts a Percent-for-Art bill that funds artwork for public buildings; the Council begins administering Cultural Trust grants and helps launch the Regional Writers Project at the Yellowstone Art Center.

1984: The Council holds its first Cultural Congress in Helena to address issues and needs for the arts, humanities and libraries; the Council moves its offices to Helena.

1985: Democratic Rep. Pat Williams of Montana becomes chairman of the House subcommittee that oversees the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities; Montana drafts Rural Arts Initiative legislation that is adopted by Congress.

1986: Local government support for art centers shrinks 14.5 percent in fiscal 1986-87; out-of-state panelists join Montana artists for the first time on peer review panels that award Council grants to Montana artists and arts organizations.

1987: Local government support for art centers shrinks an additional 12.3 percent in fiscal 1987-88; the Legislature enacts a law protecting artists who consign their work to dealers; the Council holds its second Cultural Congress in Billings; a Council study indicates 4,700 artists working in Montana earn about $25.2 million a year, with 46.5 percent earning less than $1,000 per year and the remainder earning annual incomes of just $9,945, one-third of the national average.

1988: The Council estimates that local government support for art centers will shrink another 15.4 percent in fiscal 1988-89 and initiates an in-depth evaluation of its granting process.

1989: The Legislature removes the cap on the Cultural Trust Fund and, recognizing the importance of stable, diversified funding for non-profit organizations, approves 12 Cultural and Aesthetic Projects grants enabling arts and cultural organizations to create permanent endowments of $1.2 million; the Council administers more than $1 million in grant funds on an administrative budget of approximately $85,000; Council figures show that approximately 500 non-profit arts organizations and historical museums have a $10 million impact on Montana's economy each year, including sales income of approximately $7 million by 119 private art galleries.

1990: Council staff travels to six Montana communities to hold office hours and allow those in the arts to meet with staff without traveling to Helena; the advisory Grants Task Force issues its report on ways to address the static funding situation facing the arts in Montana; the third Cultural Congress is held in Bozeman; the Council undertakes an initiative to encourage cooperative local government programs in the arts.

1991: Council staff again takes to the road and visits five more Montana communities as part of "Office on the Road," an opportunity to provide direct assistance in local communities; a Folklife and Traditional Arts category is included in the Council's grant program, adding new dimension to the grant review process; an Indian Arts Steering Committee is established to aid the Council in its efforts to promote American Indian arts and culture.

1992: Reflecting cuts made to all state agencies by the Montana Legislature during its January 1992 special session, the Council has an 8 percent cut in its general fund amounting to $7,860; Council receives five grants totaling $237,000 from the National Endowment for the Arts to specifically support rural and underserved areas of the state; planning begins for Kumamoto Arts Week, an international artist exchange and public festival celebrating a decade long "sister-state" relationship between MT and Kumamoto, Japan and the 25th Anniversary of the Council; the first statewide Indian Arts Conference is presented to enable discussion of critical issues facing Montana's Indian arts; an NEA grant allows the Council to hire a rural arts specialist to provide on-location technical assistance to developing and existing rural and local arts agencies; a Rural Arts Steering Committee is created to assist the Council's rural and local arts agency programming.

PROGRAMS & SERVICES

ORGANIZATIONAL SERVICES

Director, William B. Pratt

Rural Arts Specialist, Suzanne C. Rice

Rural Arts Specialist

A contract position supported by the NEA, the Rural Arts Specialist offers on-site technical assistance to rural arts organizations. The specialist's position is guided by a seven-member rural arts steering committee which is responsible for establishing a rural network for local, regional and statewide arts organizations. The Council sponsors a rural arts conference held every other year to assist organizations with networking opportunities, skill sharing and resource identification. ArtistSearch newsletter contains the Rural Network News section which informs arts organizations of trends, new organizations and points of interest concerning rural arts. The Council produces a Rural Arts Resource Directory to assist fledgling organizations.

Grants to Organizations

The Council's grant program provides financial assistance each year to non-profit organizations and units of government for music, dance, drama, visual arts, media and special project activities. By regranteeing monies (mainly from the National Endowment for the Arts), the Council matches local funds and in-kind contributions for a variety of projects including tours, performances, exhibitions and technical assistance. Recent grants to theaters, symphonies, arts centers and similar organizations have averaged approximately $1,900. Applicants also may qualify for "Immediate Action" grants during the year. These grants are made according to the emergency nature of the request and the availability of funds.

Cultural and Aesthetic Projects Grants

The Council administers the Cultural and Aesthetic Projects grants appropriated every two years by the Legislature from the projected interest income on Montana's Cultural Trust. For the current biennium, these grants average $12,800 each and total more than $650,000 annually. Units of state, county, local or tribal government may apply on their own behalf or on behalf of cultural organizations for special projects, operational support, capital expenditures and challenge grants for endowment development. A 16-member citizen's advisory committee appointed by the Council and the Montana Historical Society reviews applications and makes funding recommendations to the Legislature.

Underwriting Assistance

Montana communities — especially small, isolated ones — can apply for "courage" money to sponsor performances and workshops of professional quality by touring performing arts companies. The program provides up to $300 per community, pending actual proceeds from the event.

Networking

The Council works hard to foster the exchange of information and ideas on the state, regional and national levels. The Council encourages constituents to share skills and resources by supporting numerous statewide groups, including the Montana Art Gallery Directors Association, the Montana Performing Arts Consortium, the Montana Dance Arts Association, Montana Association of Symphony Orchestras and the Montana Institute of the Arts Foundation. By maintaining contact with out-of-state arts and cultural agencies and by actively participating in regional and national organizations such as the National Endowment for the Arts, National Assembly of State Arts Agencies, National Assembly of Local Arts Agencies and the Western States Arts Federation, the Council makes the most of the benefits available to Montana residents. Its involvement in Art Beyond Boundaries, a five-state consortium of state arts agencies, local arts agencies and statewide assemblies of local arts agencies, provides a cost-effective opportunity for rural arts councils and centers to meet colleagues and regional and national resource people.

Special Audiences

The Council emphasizes programs that reach Montanans not regularly served by the arts, especially racial and ethnic groups and elderly, disabled, institutionalized and low-income populations. The Council offers information on accessibility to arts and cultural facilities and events and has an Indian Arts Steering Committee to advise the Council on Montana Indian's arts and needs.

Technical Assistance

Using teleconferences, correspondence, printed materials, workshops and on-site visits, the Council staff develops, strengthens and expands community arts and cultural organizations. The Council offers technical assistance by an arts administrator and certified public accountant who specialize in non-profit management: budgeting, planning, organizational and program development, personnel management, fundraising, board development, media relations and legal issues.

ARTISTS SERVICES

Education—Julia A.C. Smith

Programs—Martha Sprague

Artists in Schools/Communities

The Artists in Schools/Communities program integrates artists into the daily activities of schools and communities for residencies ranging in length from one week to ten months. Students, teachers and community members observe and work with artists. Residency programs offer firsthand creative experiences for students, teachers and other participants; professional support for artists; educational assistance to teachers and administrators; diversity in existing curricula; and stimulus for the surrounding community.

Services to Education

The Council supports efforts in the state to advance the quality and availability of arts education. Through active cooperation with the Office of Public Instruction, Montana Art Education Association, Montana Music Educators Association, Montana Alliance for Arts Education and others, the Council supports expanded arts education in Montana. In addition, the Council administers a visual arts competition for high school students, selecting one work for display in a national exhibition sponsored by the Congressional Arts Caucus in Washington, D.C. The Council also places student artworks in the Washington offices of Montana's congressional delegation. Beginning in 1992, the Council administers a scholarship program providing $1,000 to each of four Montana college juniors studying in the arts.

Individual Artist Fellowships

The Council's Individual Fellowships program recognizes, rewards and encourages professional artists in Montana who demonstrate excellence, creativity and artistic skills. The program accepts applications in all artistic disciplines and announces awards each July.

First Book Award

In even-numbered years, the Council sponsors a competition for Montana writers of poetry or short fiction who have not had a separate volume of their work previously published. The award provides for publishing, distributing and promoting the winning submission.

Governor's Awards for the Arts

The Council, cooperating with the Governor, sponsors an annual awards program to recognize outstanding artists and organizations or individuals who have made significant contributions to the arts in Montana. Nomination forms, available from the Council upon request, are accepted year-round.

Percent-for-Art

In 1983, the 48th Montana Legislature enacted a law providing that up to 1 percent of the costs of capital construction projects be appropriated for use by the Montana Arts Council for the acquisition of art for new state buildings. The Council administers ongoing competitions to commission and purchase works of art for state-funded building and renovation projects.

ArtistSearch

This monthly newsletter, serving Montana artists, contains news articles, information on artistic competitions and exhibitions, grant and job opportunities, and a calendar of events occurring within the state. With a circulation of 1,500, Montana artists may receive it by completing a questionnaire, and it is also forwarded to arts organizations and state legislators.

FOLKLIFE SERVICES

Director, Nicholas C.P. Vrooman

The Montana Arts Council is committed to the protection and encouragement of the folklife and traditional arts of Montana society. Folklife and traditional arts are comprised of special skills and community-based aesthetic systems that have grown through time within the many groups that make up the state of Montana. The homegrown skills and artistic activities of such groups are often called folklife and traditional arts, and they serve to both identify and symbolize the groups that originate them.

As the first Folklife program in the nation created by state law, it has, since 1979, fulfilled its mandate by documenting and collecting information on Montana folklife and traditional arts; serving as a clearinghouse for public information on Montana folklife and traditional arts; offering technical assistance to individuals and organizations in the development and production of folklife projects; administering a traditional arts apprenticeship program; raising programming funds to assist in the maintenance of valued Montana traditions; and performing a state-level advocacy role in support of Montana's traditional culture.

The Council's Folklife program has supported research, produced radio programs, sound recordings, folk festivals, exhibitions, public presentations, publications, and maintains an archive, which includes the Library of Congress/American Folklife Center's field survey of Montana. It is part of a network of, and works in cooperation with national, regional, statewide, and local cultural institutions, organizations, and individuals on folklife and traditional arts efforts.

INFORMATION SERVICES

Director, Kathleen Burt

Constituent — A computer database of more than 3,000 arts organizations and individuals interested in the arts is maintained for both Council and public use. Entries are categorized according to such characteristics as artistic discipline, location and type of organization. Lists and mailing labels are available to the public and can be tailored to needs.

Grants Management — Databases containing grant applications of Council's granting programs are maintained and used for in-house tracking, analysis and national reporting requirements.

Historical — The Council also maintains databases containing the entire funding histories of its grantees. This allows the tracking of where and how much money has been distributed throughout the state.

CULTURAL & AESTHETIC PROJECTS GRANTS

The Montana Legislature makes Cultural and Aesthetic Projects grants every two years from the state's Cultural Trust Fund. The fund is made up of interest earned on the coal severance tax. Grants are made for operational support, capital construction, endowment development and special projects.

The Cultural and Aesthetic Projects Advisory Committee reviews grant applications and makes funding and ranking recommendations to the Legislature. The Montana Arts Council administers the grant application process and distributes the money after the Legislature awards the grants.
